

E is for ERISA with Christine Roberts

Christine shares the backstory of her blog, The DB-ification Trend and the movement toward increased employer control versus employee discretion of defined contribution retirement plans to better provide a sustainable source of income during retirement, along with the one provision she would change with a magic retirement wand, if she could.

Episode 23